

IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT AMERICAN HOMEPATIENT DIABETES TESTING SUPPLIES

Effective June 8, 2012, American HomePatient will no longer provide diabetes testing supplies. All other home medical equipment services provided by American HomePatient will continue as normal. If you currently purchase diabetes testing supplies from American HomePatient, you will need to select an alternate provider. Please note you need to take action to avoid an interruption in your diabetes supply service.

We realize you have a choice in how you obtain your supplies. You are free to select any supplier and may discuss your options with your physician. To make this transition as easy as possible for you and to avoid any interruption in your deliveries, American HomePatient has contracted with CCS Medical to provide seamless home delivery of your diabetic supplies at your request. CCS Medical is one of the nation's largest providers of diabetes testing supplies. They ship low-cost, high-quality products directly to you, and will bill your insurance company. Their representatives will assist you with any questions you have regarding the transfer, your meter or supplies, and your insurance. CCS Medical offers all top brands of test strips. When you call to setup your account, ask about the free meter offer that may be available to you as part of this transition.
